In conclusion I cannot better express to the Confederate veterans are present today my feeling of veneration for them; gratitude for their patriotic services; and pride in their glorious achievements than by quoting the words of Daniel Webster delivered at the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of Bunker Monument:

Ways You Haven't Tried

Marking Underclothes and Hosiery—To mark underclothes satisfactorily, write your name on a piece of tape and outline it in red or blue ink. You can, of course, buy ready-made tapes, but they are expensive. If you have your own tape so that you can pick it at those moments you will soon have plenty of markers. Write the name on the tape and it will not rub off while working. It doesn't show under clothes. For handkerchiefs the same way is to outline your name in white embroidery thread.

The graceful neck may be long or short, but it must be molded in a circular form, be firm, smooth and rounded, says The Delineator for January. The high boned collar will hold the neck stiffly as in a vise, preclude all ease and grace of movement, are ruinous to one of the most sensitive parts of the body, as the collar that run from the ear to the shoulder and from the chin to a well formed neck are beautiful in the extreme when properly proportioned, graceful and well rounded.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1909.

The Yuletide greetings are now in order.

"Congress loafing on its job" says a contemporary. That's nothing new.

We are more thankful every year that we live in Chester, the best city in the world.

For an evidence of the growth of Chester we refer you to the present activity in dirt.

Christmas week opens with all the world at peace except a little revolution in Central America but then that's a little diversion.

With a splendid crop of cotton, corn and other necessities and good prices for their products, the Chester Farmers are the most contented people in the world.

Now we need that trolley line to Great Falls more than ever. Think about it while taking your rest during the holidays and let your committee map out some plan which will build it.

The small boy has already started his Christmas fireworks in Chester and it but better look out or the police will get them. It is too soon yet to commence but then what does the small boy care?

Looking Backward

Forty nine years ago yesterday South Carolina passed the Ordinance of Secession, starting in the first of what a few months became the Confederate States of America. After a little over four years of glorious achievement, when the millions of the south fought the armies of the north during which interval the names of the southern soldiers were inscribed for all coming generations on the scroll of fame, our grand state was forced to yield to superior numbers. Four years she stood against overwhelming odds, and her courage, her devotion and her sacrifices were written in blood on many battlefields. Her fame went into the far corners of the earth and one of the proudest heritages of the present generation is the glory of the southern name.

The grandest right today is a Confederate soldier. The passing years have sadly depleted their ranks and the remnant will not long be with us. We of this age to honor their memory. We live to hear of the deeds of the trying and dark days of the beloved Confederacy. We sit and drink in the story of the peerless Lee, the fearless Jackson, and the gallant Hampton. For a man to be able to say that "I was a Confederate" is to instantly take all of the glory and honor which we are able to give. Brave, daring soldiers of a great cause! Yours was duty well done, and though you were forced to yield you make a record which will last with the ages. Yours is heard in poetry and song, and the Confederate name is a synonym for all that is brave, tender and true.

Yesterday the Daughters of the Confederacy conferred crosses of honor on those heroes who had not already been accorded one. In looking on their best and aged forms our minds went back to the period, when with all their young and dashing manhood, they answered duty's call and sacrificed their all for the southern arms. It is with sorrow that we see the ranks becoming thinner and while we have them with us let us on every occasion show the love and the veneration which we have for them and the cause they loved. They know to a fault the meaning of "Duty." Seem daughter of the voice of God. They drank to its depths the cup of sorrow, of trial, of poverty, starvation, shame and misery. Their souls were rung with anguish and their heads bowed with a great load as they turned from Appomattox back to their homes and wasted and broken men while they reared a greater south than the one they lost. They laid the foundations of the present prosperous and happy people and to them we owe it. There was duty well done and theirs is the honor well won.

In a cutting scrape Monday night C. G. Trakas, the proprietor of the Candy Kitchen was badly out about the head by Luke McCall. The personal testimony is that McCall was drunk and started the trouble. If he also said this is by no means his first trouble of the kind. He has left for parts unknown—Wilmington News and Herald.

49th Anniversary Observed.

A goodly number of Sons of Veterans and United Daughters of the Confederacy and Veterans assembled at the court house yesterday afternoon to observe the 49th anniversary of the ordinance of Secession and to bestow crosses of honor upon the veterans. The exercises were interesting throughout and were thoroughly enjoyed.

The meeting was called to order by the Hon. W. H. Hardin, Commander of the Walker Gaston Camp, U. D. C. The Rev. H. C. Phillips invoked the divine blessing on the gathering. Hon. W. D. Knox, Adjutant of the Walker Gaston Camp, read the rules governing the bestowal of the crosses of honor.

Announcement was made that the crosses of honor had not arrived and consequently their bestowal will be made at some future day.

Hon. A. L. Gaston, Commander of the South Carolina division U. S. C. V. delivered a splendid and interesting address, which was listened to with close and marked attention. His full address appears elsewhere in The Lantern. The following resolution was adopted by the meeting at the conclusion of Mr. Gaston's speech:

Resolved, "That the thanks of the audience be extended to the Hon. A. L. Gaston for the historical, patriotic and eloquent address delivered on this the 49th anniversary of the Ordinance of Secession and the 48th anniversary of the battle of Dravosville and that a copy be made for publication in the county papers, and that a copy be placed in the archives of the Patterson Public Library." This resolution passed unanimously and showed the appreciation of Mr. Gaston's magnificent address.

The following to receive crosses of honor were: C. H. Allen, J. C. Burns, W. B. Crosby, A. Gibson, duplicate, B. P. Gregory, J. O. Hardin, duplicate, W. H. Hardin, W. J. Lucas, I. C. McFadden, W. D. Mobley, A. P. Moore, Wade Owens, A. S. Owen, duplicate, W. R. Selis, Samuel Varandine.

For Santa Claus.

Dear Santa—Please call by Rodman Christmas eve night to see me and bring me a big china doll, a cook stove and pans, dishes, a train and express wagon, a top, doll buggy, a horse and wagon and nuts and candy and fruits.

Think of My Grace, too, and Zelmia and Rob. We will all try to be good.

Israel Douglas.

Dr. Kennedy's Sister Dead.

Miss Emma Kennedy, of Yorkville, died Saturday morning at Charleston, whither she was carried several weeks ago to be operated on for appendicitis. The operation was successful, but she later developed typhoid fever, from which she died. The remains were taken to Yorkville Sunday for burial. Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy went to Yorkville for the funeral.

Mr. David Kimball Dead.

Mr. David I. Kimball, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Kimball, of R. 2, died suddenly Sunday night. Mr. Kimball was in the 21st year of his age. He has been associated with his father and brother for the past three years in the sales stable, under the firm name of S. J. Kimball and Sons.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the home on Main Street, conducted by Rev. Alex. Martin, and afterwards laid to rest in Laurelwood Cemetery.

For False Pretences.

John Estes, colored, seems to have a knack for buying liquor, whether he is agent or simply a go-between for the blind tigers is not known, but at any rate he seems to know where to find liquor. The other day he approached Mr. W. M. Kitebe and asked if he had any more good liquor. Estes told Mr. Kitebe that he could get him some good case goods for 65 cents a pint. Mr. Kitebe gave him the money to buy him the liquor but Estes took the money and disappeared. He was arrested by the police and upon being arraigned before the mayor was found guilty and sentenced to 30 days on the chain gang. It is said that there are four more cases of a like nature against him.

Bang Bell Too Much.

Floyd Martin, a colored youth of about ten summers, was struck Saturday night by the tone of the bell on the east entrance to the Carolina Inn and kept on ringing it. Every time anyone approached he would ring the bell and then scamper away. This was great fun to him and he kept it up. Finally the police caught him and carried him to the guard house and yesterday morning he was before the mayor. His youth saved him and as his mother had already thrashed him severely the mayor let him go with an admonition to let bells alone. This he promised to do and his mother declared that she had left such an impression on him after using the rod of correction that every time Floyd would see a bell he would go around a block to get out of its way, so vivid was the impression of the consequence of his present act.

Uncle Sam's Parol Roofing

The above illustration is from a photograph of the Plant Industry Building, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. It is located in the heart of the city and is covered with PAROID ROOFING. The Government also uses PAROID for stables, barracks, warehouses, etc. It is PAROID because it finds nothing as economical. PAROID is the ideal roofing for barns, stables, sheds, poultry houses, warehouses, outbuildings, etc. Equally valuable for roofing or siding. Its permanent, is easy to lay, is spark and clinder proof, slate color, contains no tar, does not crack, and does not run in summer. What is good for the Government will be equally good for you. Call for free samples of PAROID and see just what it is. Book of up-to-date Poultry and Farm Building Plans free for the asking.

Gage-Howell.

This afternoon at five o'clock, at the home of Judge and Mrs. G. W. Gage on York street, will occur the wedding of their daughter, Miss Martha Williams Gage to Mr. M. P. Howell of Walterboro. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. D. M. McLeod. The wedding will be a quiet home affair and will be witnessed only by the immediate relatives and a few friends. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple will leave for a bridal tour, after which they will be at home to their friends at Walterboro, S. C.

The bride-to-be was born and reared in this city and is well known throughout the State. She is a young woman of many graces and charms, who will carry with her to her new home the best wishes of her many friends. The groom elect is an active member of the Walterboro bar which is prominent in both social and business circles. He enjoys a lucrative law practice and is one of the most prominent attorneys in the southern part of the State.

The out of town guests to the wedding include Mr. Asner Howell and Miss Howell of Walterboro, sister of the groom elect, and E. L. Fishborne, all of Walterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Honors for a Carolina Lad.
Washington—Diplomas of merit today were presented by Secretary Wilson in this office at the department of agriculture to Ransom Under of South Carolina, DeWitt Leary of Mississippi, Elmer Hatter of Alabama and Ralph Bellwood of Virginia, all boys under 18 years, for special proficiency in agricultural pursuits.

The recipients of the awards are among 12,500 engaged in the boys' demonstration work in the South. Each planted one acre of corn and cultivated it under instruction from the department of agriculture. Thousands of dollars of prizes were given this year throughout the South.

The diploma winner, Joseph South Carolina, made 123 bushels per acre. 147 bushels were made in Mississippi, 130 bushels in North Carolina and 122 bushels in Virginia. The club average was about 90 bushels. All the Southern States are making arrangements to send prize winners to Washington next year.

In a brief address to the boys, Secretary Wilson declared they and the boys engaged in like work are "the only hope we have for the continued greatness and prosperity of the country." He pointed out that the South now in agriculture and in manufacturing was prospering as never before, because the men and women of the South had put into their work their own energy and ability and in no sense were dependent upon the capital or industry of people from other parts of the country.

Mrs. G. W. F. Harper, of Lenoir, Dead.
Lenoir, Dec. 15.—The people of Lenoir are today mourning the death of Mrs. G. W. F. Harper who died of pneumonia here about 5.30 o'clock this morning after an illness of only a few days. The end was not unexpected and all was ready.

Mrs. Ella Rankin Harper was the daughter of the late Rev. Jesse Rankin and came here with her parents when a small girl. She joined the Presbyterian church at an early age and remained a faithful and devoted member of that church for about sixty years. To estimate her services to and influence on the church and this community would be impossible. Upon such a life as she lived, pure, unselfish, helpful, exalted above things earthly, no estimate can be placed. The sweetness, kindness and graciousness of her disposition is proverbial in this community which today is shrouded in sorrow at the death of one who was in truth a womanly woman. By her departure the town, the church and all the organizations to which she belonged have impoverished.

ished. Upon her grave we drop a silent tear and place there "the white flower of a blameless life."

Deceased was 78 years old and came here with her husband, Maj. G. W. F. Harper, the golden wedding last summer. The surviving members of the family are her husband, one son, M. C. F. Harper, and one daughter, Mrs. J. M. Bernhardt, all of Lenoir.

The funeral will be conducted from the Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by her pastor, Rev. D. P. McGehee, assisted by Rev. C. A. Monroe of Hickory, the interment following at Balfour cemetery.

Hickory, Dec. 15.—Winston-Monroe the 12-year-old son of Mr. E. V. Morison of this city, died at the operating table here this morning from heart failure due to the effect of chloroform administered. The boy was shot in the left eye Monday afternoon by Elton Albert, by another act. Elton was playing with an air rifle and the shot was not intended for Winston. To his death was found necessary to remove the shot from the eye and it was while undergoing the operation the little fellow died. Doctors Menick, Shuon and Stephenson performed the operation.

Macaroni Tarts.—Mix the yolks of two eggs with one-half cup of granulated sugar and beat until light. Roll a half dozen dry macaronis and flavor either with the grated rind and juice of an orange or a lemon. Mix this with a tablespoonful of melted butter. Beat all these ingredients until they are smooth and add the yolk of one egg. Coat the macaroni with the egg. Coat inverted patty tins with puff paste, prick, and bake in a hot oven. When cool, fill with marmalade or jelly and cover with the macaroni mixture. Place for a moment in the oven until the tops brown.

Shot by Express Messenger.
Charlotte, Dec. 14.—W. L. Frazier, a well known business man of Matthews, S. C., was shot in the left arm and side at the Southern passenger station here this morning by Harry Jones, an express messenger.

A mystery surrounds the affair, no provocation or excuse for the shooting being given by either Jones or Frazier. The shooting took place at 2.30 o'clock this morning, shortly after the arrival here of train No. 39, and was witnessed by two other express messengers, who denied any knowledge of the affair at first, but afterward told about it after they were arrested.

Frazier, who is not dangerously wounded, is in the Presbyterian hospital, his arm is in a splint, where he will be held for the preliminary trial.

Send These With Your Gifts
WITH A BOX OF CANDY FOR A LADY
"Sweet to the sweet." The wisest old saw
I quote because 'tis fitting.
And tribute pay unto the law
With gladness unrelenting.
"Like unto like" is a true,
Wherefore these candies haste to you
WITH A RAZOR—SHAVING PAD OR OTHER SHAVING MATERIALS
Should you not go out in shaving,
About a blade—razor
Small effect has bitter raving
When the wound one may not see,
But should you razor smoothly glide
Include me in your smile so wide.

FOR ANY SORT OF HOLIDAY REMEMBRANCE
—BRANCE
Here's a thought of joyous cheer
For Christmas and for all the year!
TO "HER" WITH A PAIR OF GLOVES
A little thumb, and fingers, too,
I can but wish that I were you,
Since you, my child, may clasp my hand
To her—but no! she'll understand.

WITH A SMOKING SET, PIPE, CIGARS, ETC.
Then clouds of smoke around you float.
Think sometimes of this loving friend
In (cordial) note.
When "pictures in the smoke" you see,
Just send a dreamy thought to me.
(Wait now and then a thought to me.)
But though you brighter (sweeter) joys smoke,
Don't let our friendship "end in smoke."

WITH MUSIC OR A MUSICAL INSTRUMENT
Because the very thought of you
Makes music in my mind,
Pray let me share this music true,
The sweetest (gayest) (brightest) I could find;
And may each tone bear witness clear
Of Christmas (birthday) (New Year)
Joy for all the year.

Everything in Paris shows that the Moyaen age styles will reign during the coming summer, says Edouard La Fontaine in The Delineator for January.

I have seen Moyaen dresses in Paris with the cutness and panels of solid eyelid embroidery or of heavy Irish crochet lace or braided net.

No fretting over the biscuit making. Royal is the aid to many a cook's success

With the lace the skirt of the dress is generally made of very soft Brussels or Russian net gathered on to the princess body across the sides and back.

The lace dresses are made over such foundations, cut out at the neck in a slight décolletage intended for informal dinners, etc. Some times the short cap sleeves of the lace is lengthened to puff sleeves of the net reaching to the elbow. No one keeps closely to one specific length in the sleeves of evening dresses and house gowns; for they can begin or end anywhere from the wrist to the shoulder.

Albert came with his grandpa to visit his grandpa. When they were walking home his grandpa noticed Albert was slacking up some. When he asked him what the matter was he said, "Walt a minute, grandpa, till I catch up my hind step." Grandpa was evidently walking too fast.—The Delineator for January.

"I want a hat pin," said little Mary of four years, as she gazed eagerly at the cushion full of sparkling ornaments on the milliner's showcase.

"How much is it?" she asked after making a deliberate choice and laying her purchase money, a bright penny, on the counter. "Oh, nothing," returned the kind hearted Mrs. Briggs, as Mary's mother was one of her regular customers. Imagine her amusement as the little "bargain hunter" said most eagerly, "I'll take two, please."—The Delineator for January.

Pa. culottes—Invert patty tins and cover with puff paste. Prick and bake in a very quick oven until they are entirely risen, though not sufficiently browned. Remove, fill with lemon filling as for lemon pie and return to the oven. These little tarts are delicious covered with a meringue and browned in the oven. A slight grating of lemon rind in the center of each tart is an attractive addition to the meringue and emphasizes pleasantly the lemon flavor.
